

Dear Reader,

Please find below the editorial synopsis for the Q2.2022 issue of The DESK. Trusted by bond traders to provide the best information on market structure, data and trade execution.

Using a unique model of feedback via monthly off-the-record briefings and quarterly quantitative research, we help buy-side traders navigate the evolving fixed income markets and sell-side traders to better support their clients.

The quarterly magazine as well as daily news site, weekly newsletters and social media feeds give us a constant flow of information to the market, blending a mix of exclusive stories, in-depth trader profiles and technical analysis of trading across the cash and derivatives fixed income markets.

If you are interested in any of the forthcoming coverage please contact the editor, Dan Barnes.

FEATURES:

Lead: TCA research

Primary research into buy-side use of fixed income trading analytics and best execution analysis tools.

Trading: The trading venue perimeter debate

We look at responses to the ESMA consultation on trading venue and consider the risks of creating support for under-regulated trading venues and over-regulated trading desks.

Data: What can you do with your data?

Bilateral agreements with banks around data ownership have led to challenges about buy-side data sharing. Given the imperative for better data access, we ask these issues have, or might, be resolved to better support trading.

Technology: The big barriers to adoption.

Speaking with fintech entrepreneurs, platform vendors and traders, The DESK assesses some of the common barriers to technology adoption, from 'a solution without a problem', to limited flexibility, to delayed roll-outs and regulatory sign-offs.
